Traditionalists, Boomers, Xers and Millenials - your birth year helps to define the generation you represent, but what exactly distinguishes one from the other and why does it matter? Knowing the values that motivate and inspire each of the different generational groups helps us better serve our customers - both internal and external. Join us to learn more about:

- Distinguishing traits among the four generations
- Generationally-defined differences in workplace values
- Exceptions to the "rules"
- Bridging the gap in workplace interactions with colleagues and supervisors
